

During the months of May 2018 and June 2018, I am going to start to be a lot stricter and pickier on what review requests I accept and what review requests I decline. Because of this, I have decided to start a waitlist.

What Is A Waitlist?

A waitlist is simply another term for waiting list.

Why Would a Book Be Put On the Waitlist?

A book would be put on the waitlist if it sounds interesting and like something I genuinely would enjoy, but I do not have the time to review it at the time the request is sent in.

Where Do Books Go On the Waitlist?

Books will go on my waitlist based on my interest in the book. This means that the order of the waitlist will change every so often. Your book could go from number one to number ten or it could go from number ten to number one.

If your book is placed on the waitlist, you will be sent a view only link to a Google Spreadsheet that will have the updated waitlist. Whenever I make any changes the waitlist, it will be done in that Google Spreadsheet. This way, you will have 24/7 access to see the order of the waitlist without me having to contact you regarding it every time there is any change in it.

How Often Will the Waitlist Be Updated?

There is no saying how often the waitlist will be updated, it just depends, which is why I will send a link to where you can view the current waitlist whenever instead of contacting you. It could change three times a day or not change at all for three weeks, it all depends on what requests I receive, what I have going on, and how interested I am in the book and much I think I will genuinely enjoy it.

When Will Books On the Waitlist Be Reviewed?

Books that are placed on the waitlist will start being reviewed on July 1, 2018 however, if there is a review request that was NOT placed on the waitlist that I am currently reading, I will finish that book before starting the waitlist along with all other requests from the months of May 2018 and June 2018 I accepted and have not finished yet.

If you have any additional questions regarding any information stated, or not stated, in here, please, don't hesitate to contact me!
